SERVICES WE OFFER

WEG offers the management of investment advisory accounts, investment supervisory services, financial planning and financial consulting services. Investment management programs include both individually customized accounts and separately managed account programs.

Advisory services are provided for accounts opened at WEG, with assets held in custody at RBC Capital Markets, Pershing, LLC, or TD Ameritrade. Higher costs may occur on one custodian compared to another as custodians charge differently for similar services. Wrap-fee programs are more fully described in the ADV Part 2A – Appendix 1 prepared by WEG or program sponsor. WEG and its investment advisory representatives who recommend programs receive compensation as a result of a client’s participation in the program. The compensation paid to WEG with respect to those programs may vary depending on the program. Therefore, WEG or the representative may have a financial incentive to recommend a program that provides greater compensation to WEG or the representative over other programs and services. Detailed descriptions of each plan are described below.

Please refer to the Fees and Compensation Section for costs associated with each plan.

¹ The term “registered investment advisor” is not intended to imply that World Equity Group, Inc. has attained a certain level of skill or training. It is used strictly to reference the fact that we are “Registered” as an “Investment Advisor” with the United States Securities & Exchange Commission – and with such other regulatory agencies that may have limited regulatory jurisdiction over our business practices.

COMPASS ASSET MANAGEMENT

Compass Asset Management is a separately managed account program sponsored by WEG. Pursuant to the program, an investment advisory representative (“IAR”) associated with WEG assists clients with selecting a portfolio model based on the completion of a risk, personal and financial data profile from responses provided by the client. Depending upon the client’s investment objectives, goals, risk levels and other factors, the IAR selects, with the client, a program model appropriate for that client’s objectives. WEG officers manage the models on a discretionary basis. There are four models designed for accounts over $100,000 that include individual stocks, ETFs, bonds, UITs and may include mutual funds. There are two models designed for accounts under $100,000 that do not include individual stocks, and two models designed to manage products such as variable annuities and qualified plans offered through various third party plan administrators and their selected custodians. The investment selections for variable annuities and qualified plans are limited to the choices offered through each specific plan. Assets are not required to be invested in any particular asset class. Compass Program models apply proprietary filtering processes that evaluate market risk, asset class risk, sector risk and individual security risk using a variety of technical indicators.

CUSTOMIZED ASSET MANAGEMENT PROGRAMS AND INDIVIDUALLY MANAGED PROGRAMS

WEG offers asset management services to clients through customized programs. In such customized programs, clients may authorize WEG IARs to purchase and sell mutual funds, exchange traded funds, equities, fixed income securities and other securities authorized by WEG on a discretionary or non-discretionary basis pursuant to the investment objectives chosen by the client.

In opening a customized program account, the IAR obtains the necessary financial data from the client, assists the client in determining the suitability of asset management and assists the client in setting the appropriate investment objective.

The details of the account relationship will be stated in the client agreement for any customized program account, which may include the use of an investment policy statement or investment guidelines.

A customized program account may cost the client more or less than purchasing program services separately. Factors that bear upon the cost of the account in relation to the cost of the same services purchased separately include: the type and size of the account, the historical and/or expected size or number of trades for the account, and the number and range of supplementary advisory and client related services provided.

RBC Advisor Program

The RBC Advisor Program is a program, whereby an investment advisory representative associated with WEG manages an account opened at WEG and held in custody at RBC Capital Markets. The advisory representative makes recommendations for investments in no-load mutual funds, load waived mutual funds, equities and fixed income securities. For clients investing solely in open-end mutual funds, when the actual allocation among the mutual funds in a client account vary from the fund allocation established by the client, the client can choose (i) to have the account automatically rebalanced, (ii) to be alerted when rebalancing would be recommended or, instead, (iii) to assume responsibility for advising their advisory representative when the client determines rebalancing should occur.

The minimum initial investment for the program is negotiated individually with each client. Accounts are charged an “assets under management” fee, based on the value of all securities in the account, plus a ticket charge of up to $25 per transaction. These fees cover (i) an initial analysis and periodic re-evaluation of the client’s investment objectives and needs; (ii) all advisory services, including any money managers; (iii) account statements and portfolio reviews; (iv) execution costs; (v) custody; (vi) postage and handling charges, and (vii) regulatory expenses assessed on equity trades.

As part of the firm's clearing contract with RBC Capital Markets, a monthly minimum commission threshold exists. If the threshold fails to be met in a calendar month the firm must pay RBC the difference between the amount generated and the minimum threshold. A potential conflict of interest to route orders to RBC Capital Markets to meet the minimum threshold may exist.

TD Ameritrade Advisor Program

The TD Ameritrade Advisor Program is a program whereby an investment advisory representative associated with WEG manages an account held in custody at TD Ameritrade Institutional. The advisory representative makes recommendation for investments consistent with the information in the client profile, including, but not limited to, investments in securities of any kind issued by U.S. or foreign issuers, such as common and preferred stocks, warrants, options, rights, corporate or government bonds or notes, shares of money market mutual funds, cash, and permitted alternative investments. The term "securities" refers to securities or to all permitted investments in the client's portfolio, as applicable.

The minimum initial investment for the program is negotiated individually with each client. Accounts are charged an "assets under management" fee, based on the value of all billable assets in the account. TD Ameritrade Institutional will receive either transaction based fees or asset based fees from acting as custodian. Additionally, TD Ameritrade Institutional may receive ancillary sources of income from client accounts, for example, interest on clients' credit balances, 12b-1 fees, custodial and other administrative expenses.

FINANCIAL PLANNING, CONSULTING AND OTHER SERVICES

WEG offers comprehensive financial planning and consulting services, including analysis and recommendations regarding investments, retirement planning, estate planning, college planning, and business planning for appropriate clients. Implementation of plan recommendations is entirely at the client's discretion. Plan recommendations are developed using data collected from the client.

ADHESION MONEY MANAGEMENT PROGRAM

The Adhesion Money Management Program is a separately managed WRAP account program sponsored by WEG, managed by Adhesion Wealth Advisor Solutions, an overlay manager, and custodied at TD Ameritrade. Pursuant to the Program, an investment advisory representative associated with WEG, or associated with an investment advisory firm who has been provided access to the Adhesion Money Management Program, assists clients with allocating funds among several portfolio managers available in the program. The allocation is based on the personal and financial data and the investment objectives determined via a client risk profile questionnaire. Funds allocated to each portfolio manager will be held in a separate sub-account under Adhesion Wealth Advisor Solutions. Portfolio managers will have authority to invest and reinvest the funds on a discretionary basis, in accordance with a model or investment strategy maintained by the portfolio manager. Portfolio managers will invest only in accordance with their model. WEG Investment Advisor Representatives will have discretion to reallocate funds among selected portfolio managers or change portfolio managers, and clients may request funds to be reallocated at any time.

Adhesion Wealth Advisor Solutions will coordinate portfolio manager trading activity including whether and how to implement trading instructions received from the portfolio managers. Adhesion's objective is to facilitate diversification, and upon request, account rebalancing and management of tax implications of portfolio manager activities.

Adhesion Money Management is further described in detail in the ADV Part 2A – Appendix 1 – Adhesion Wrap Fee Program Brochure disclosure document and is provided in addition to this disclosure document. Some of the Adhesion programs are managed by outside registered investment advisors. Each of these advisors will provide a copy of their disclosure documents (ADV Part 2 and /or ADV Part 2A – Appendix 1) which will further describe the program, fees and risks. The disclosure document is available from your investment advisor representative or by contacting WEG at compliance@weg1.com.

REPS CHOICE MONEY MANAGEMENT PROGRAM

Under the Reps Choice program, an independent investment advisory representative of WEG will assist the client in selecting third party portfolio managers for management of the account based on personal and financial data provided by the client. The selection of the portfolio manager is made solely by the client. The client must contact WEG in order to change portfolio managers or change allocations among portfolio managers. The portfolio managers will invest portions of the account (“subaccounts”) allocated to them on a discretionary basis or will direct WEG how to invest the subaccount. Neither WEG nor the investment advisor representative will make any recommendations or provide individualized investment advice regarding specific investments or have any authority to make investments in the account or subaccounts.

Reps Choice Money Management is further described in detail in the ADV Part 2A – Appendix 1 - Reps Choice Wrap Fee Brochure disclosure document and is provided in addition to this disclosure document. Some of the Reps Choice programs are managed by outside registered investment advisors. Each of these advisors will provide a copy of their disclosure documents (ADV Part 2 and/or ADV Part 2A – Appendix 1) which will further describe the program, fees and risks. The disclosure document is available from your investment advisor representative or by contacting WEG at compliance@weg1.com.

SERVICES FOR QUALIFIED RETIREMENT PLANS

Retirement Management Systems (RMS)

Under the RMS program, the advisor will construct a model portfolio or customize a portfolio for each client 401(k) plan account. The 401(k) plan is held at a custodian chosen by the 401(k)-plan administrator. The portfolio will be constructed based on the investments or funds available within each individual client's 401(k) plan. The model choices are conservative, balanced, growth and aggressive growth. RMS shall provide investment management services by allocating and reallocating assets within the plan consistent with the model or portfolio allocation chosen by the advisor through its Investment Advisor Representative. Additionally, RMS provides (i) access to tools for viewing and managing Client data, including software and website access ("Program Systems"); (ii) information and/or professional evaluations regarding the qualifications and performance of investment companies ("Funds") and securities made available through the Plans; (iii) operational and administrative services in connection with Program account set-up and maintenance; (iv) calculation of the Program Fee, collection and allocation of that fee between RMS and Adviser; (v) marketing materials, and (vi) performance reporting to Clients.

The account minimum is: $10,000.

Additional 401(k), 403(b), and other retirement plan advisory services are offered. These plans will vary based upon the TPA, plan custodian, and investment selections available under each plan.

THIRD PARTY MANAGEMENT PROGRAMS

In addition to the programs managed through WEG, other programs offered by WEG are sponsored and managed by various outside, unaffiliated Registered Investment Advisors. Each of these programs will provide a copy of their disclosure documents (ADV Part 2 and/or ADV Part 2A – Appendix 1) which will further describe the program, account minimums, fees and risks. These additional disclosure documents are available from your investment advisor representative or by contacting WEG at compliance@weg1.com.

Clients should be aware that by engaging in these services, they will pay a direct management fee to these program managers in addition to an indirect management fee to WEG.

CLIENT IMPOSED RESTRICTIONS

Advisory service programs can be tailored to the needs of individual clients. A risk tolerance profile is completed that includes the client's investment objectives, risk tolerance, time horizon, financial situation and other factors that is then used to construct a managed portfolio appropriate for that specific client.

Each client has the ability to impose reasonable restrictions on the management of the client's account, including the designation of particular securities or types of securities that should not be purchased for the account, or that should be sold if held in the account. If the client's instructions are unreasonable or WEG believes the instructions are inappropriate for the client, we will notify the client that, unless the instructions are modified, we may cancel the client's account. A client will not be able to provide instructions that prohibit or restrict the investment advisor of an open-end or closed-end mutual fund or exchange-traded fund, with respect to the purchase or sale of specific securities or types of securities, within the fund. Account restrictions need to be made in writing by the client and provided to the investment advisor representative.

WRAP FEE PROGRAMS

WEG participates in wrap fee programs by providing portfolio management services through the Adhesion and Reps Choice programs, which are described in each program's ADV Part 2A – Appendix 1 Wrap Fee Program Brochure. There are no differences between the way the wrap fee accounts are managed and how the other, non-wrap accounts are managed. The difference is in the fee structure. Wrap fee programs are where investment advisory services and brokerage execution services are provided for a single “wrapped fee”. Other management programs typically charge a management fee in addition to ticket charges or other brokerage and custodial fees. WEG does receive a portion of the wrap fees for our services (detailed on page 12).

ASSETS UNDER MANAGEMENT

WEG has assets under management of $608.44 million. This includes assets managed on a discretionary basis of $528.86 million and managed on a non-discretionary basis of $79.58 million. The calculation determining the assets under management was completed as of March 1, 2017.

For accounts held as part of a 401(k), 403(b) or other employer sponsored plans, additional fees may be paid to the plan trustee, administrator or plan sponsor. For these types of accounts, the plan fees and expenses are described in the plan documents. Please refer to your plan administrator for information specific to these fees.

OTHER FEES

All fees paid to WEG for investment advisory services are separate and distinct from the fees and expenses charged by Mutual Funds, Exchange Traded Funds (ETFs), Variable Annuities, and other Investment Managers, broker/dealers and custodians retained by clients, if any. Such fees and expenses are described in each Mutual Fund’s and Variable Annuity’s prospectus, each Manager’s Form ADV Part 2 or ADV Part 2A – Appendix 1, or similar disclosure statement, and by any broker/dealer or custodian retained by a client. Mutual Fund, Variable Annuities, and Manager fees generally include a management fee, fund expenses, and related fees. If a Mutual Fund also imposes sales charges, a client may pay an initial or deferred sales charge as further described in the Fund’s prospectus. Refer to the Mutual Fund or Variable Annuity prospectus for a complete description of fees and services.

Certain ETFs pay advisory fees to their investment advisors, which reduces the net asset value of the fund. Some ETF’s are organized as unit investment trusts and do not have an investment advisor. However, all ETF’s do incur expenses related to their management and administration that are analogous to an investment advisor’s management fee. These expenses affect the value of the investment. Please see the prospectus for a complete description of their fees and services.

METHOD OF FEE DEDUCTION

Most programs charge fees in advance on either a monthly or quarterly basis as outlined in the client agreement. Accounts may be billed in arrears upon request from the client or portfolio manager at the inception of the advisory agreement. The account value of the assets under management at month or quarter end will determine the charge based on the fee agreement found in the client’s advisory agreement

The initial fee can be determined by the value of the account at the close of the opening month or quarter, by the aggregate value of the total invested assets at the time of initial allocation, by an average daily value of the assets during the remaining billing quarter, or by the total value of the account at the inception of the advisory agreement. Some management plans, such as 401(k) accounts, may require that the client be billed for services. Such invoices are payable within 30 days of the end of that billing period. A client may terminate the advisory contract at any time by notice to WEG in writing and receive a pro-rated refund of fees.

The custodians used by WEG are permitted to rely upon the authority of WEG and its advisers to provide instructions to disburse cash from client's cash accounts if the custodians in good faith believe such instructions to be given in connection with or in accordance with: (a) securities trading activity; or (b) the payment of fees that owed per the advisory agreement. Any other instructions to disburse cash from client accounts must come from the client or other persons authorized to do so in accordance with the agreement, but excluding the firm and its advisers. WEG and its advisers will not have the authority to provide any instruction to disburse cash from your accounts on your behalf except as contemplated above.

ADDITIONAL COMPENSATION

Investment Advisor Representatives (IARs) also can be Registered Representatives of the affiliated WEG broker/dealer. WEG is a FINRA member firm that offers securities on a commission basis. By being dually registered with both the B/D and RIA, conflicts of interest can arise. The representative may have an incentive to recommend products based on the compensation received, rather than client's needs. The representative may receive a commission on the sale of a product and also charge a management fee. To address this conflict, WEG will either recommend "no-load" mutual funds, or in the case of annuities, lower the management fee to reduce the cost to the client. Additional information regarding mutual and annuity compensation can be found in those products' prospectuses. The investor should carefully review those documents prior to investing.

All clients have the option to purchase investment products that WEG recommends through other brokers or agents not affiliated with WEG. WEG does not sponsor or offer any proprietary products.

PERFORMANCE-BASED FEES AND SIDE-BY-SIDE MANAGEMENT

PERFORMANCE-BASED FEES

World Equity Group does not offer performance-based fees or pricing.

TYPES OF CLIENTS

WEG generally provides investment advice to individuals, pension and/ or profit sharing plans, trusts, estates, charitable organizations, corporations and other business entities. Requirements for opening an account could vary depending on the program selected, but we typically have minimum accounts size requirements of between $25,000 and $100,000. The account manager may, at his discretion, accept accounts below the minimum required amount.

METHODS OF ANALYSIS, INVESTMENT STRATEGIES & RISK OF LOSS

METHODS OF ANALYSIS

Methods of analysis and investment strategies include charting, fundamental, tactical, cyclical and technical analysis, independent research, and asset allocation implementation strategies. Proprietary software programs can be used to identify market points where either “buy” or “sell” signals are recognized. These signals assist the managers in implementing the specified management strategies of the various managed programs. Quantitative analysis can also be used when analyzing securities. This analysis uses current and historical pricing information to help identify trends in both the domestic and foreign equity and fixed income markets. Technical indicators such as moving averages and trend lines may be further used to identify entry and exit points. Various fundamental data such as overall economic conditions, industry outlook, interest rates and political climate are also considered.

INVESTMENT STRATEGIES AND RISK

The investment strategies WEG uses involves multiple methods of analysis to produce a list of fundamentally and technically attractive investments. Various sectors and investments are compared based on relative strength and risk. Opportunities to invest are identified based upon the completed comparison and analysis.

All investment strategies involve risk. There is no assurance that a positive return will be obtained in any managed investment account program. Neither WEG investment advisory representatives nor portfolio managers guarantee the performance of the account, or promise any specific level of performance, or promise that investment decisions, strategies or overall management of the account will be successful. Any investment decisions portfolio managers may make for clients are subject to various market, currency, economic, political, interest rate and business risks, will not necessarily be profitable, and are subject to investment risk, including possible loss of principal.

In January 2012, World Equity Group signed a Financial Industry Regulatory Authority (FINRA) letter of Acceptance, Waiver and Consent (AWC). All OATS reporting requirements have since been corrected.

In November 2011, World Equity Group and Mr. Richard Babjak, President and an owner of WEG, signed a Financial Industry Regulatory Authority (FINRA) letter of Acceptance, Waiver and Consent (AWC). The AWC alleged specific deficiencies in regard to the supervision of advertisements, communications with the public, licensing and registration occurring between December 2007 and November 2008 and involved the supervision of advertising activities of one representative relative to non-securities insurance products. The allegations applied only to the supervision of the firm and there has not been a complaint of any type from any of Mr. Babjak's clients regarding his financial planning or investment advisory practice.

BROKERAGE PRACTICES

DIRECTED BROKERAGE

For accounts managed by WEG, it is required that such accounts be custodied at Pershing, RBC Capital Markets or TD Ameritrade, depending on the investment management program selected. Not all advisors require their clients to use these direct brokerage arrangements. In selecting custodial brokers for execution or recommendation to customers, WEG considers the full range and quality of services, including the value of research provided, execution capability, commission rate, financial responsibility and responsiveness to WEG in order to obtain the best execution for the client. WEG periodically evaluates the custodial broker/dealers it selects or recommends for clients. However, by directing brokerage to these firms, WEG may not be able to obtain the most favorable execution of client transactions, and this practice may cost clients more money.

ORDER ENTRY

Security orders will generally be entered for execution on a first-in-first-out basis. In the event trades in the same security will be executed for multiple accounts (due to exercise of discretionary authority or simultaneous orders from customers), the trades will be aggregated and allocated by an Investment Advisor Representative in order to obtain best execution for all similarly situated customers of that Investment Advisor Representative or Portfolio Model. When trades are aggregated, allocation to each account will be determined prior to entering an aggregated trade and allocated on a pro rata basis. Orders executed at different prices will be price averaged when allocating to accounts.

TRADE ERRORS

In the event a trading error occurs in a client account, WEG will restore the account to the position it should have been in had the trading error not occurred. WEG shall be responsible for any losses in trades identified in error and will reimburse the client account for losses that occur due to the error but will not reimburse any market gains. The firm corrects all trade errors through Trading Error Accounts maintained by the firm's custodians and will retain the net gains or losses.

BEST EXECUTION

WEG clients may custody assets at Pershing, RBC or TD Ameritrade. These clearing firms conduct reviews of their order execution quality and WEG reviews the aggregate requirements and rationale of these reviews. WEG conducts semi-annual reviews of the various aspects of their best execution process.

This is discussed in semi-annual Best Execution Committee reviews. Clients may request a copy of our complete Best Execution Policy by contacting the firm's Compliance Department.

SOFT DOLLARS

WEG does not at the present time accept soft dollars arrangements.

REVIEW OF ACCOUNTS

FREQUENCY AND NATURE OF REVIEWS

World Equity Group investment advisory representatives review accounts on an ongoing basis. Representatives also may conduct more thorough reviews annually or quarterly, depending on the program. WEG supervisory personnel conduct reviews to evaluate consistency of performance compared to the client's investment objectives. The Compliance Department additionally conducts reviews through an annual internal audit program.

REPORTS PROVIDED TO CLIENTS

Clients receive a quarterly performance evaluation, a monthly activity summary statement, confirmation of all transactions as they occur, and a year-end tax summary. All reports are provided in writing. Additional reports may be provided depending on the program and at the request of the client. All account statements are sent to the client directly from the custodian.

CLIENT REFERRALS & OTHER COMPENSATION

SOLICITATION ARRANGEMENTS

In addition to the above programs and services, WEG also acts as a solicitor for other registered investment advisors when appropriate. World Equity Group receives a portion of investment advisory fees paid by a client to those advisors. Terms of referral fee arrangements are disclosed in a solicitor's disclosure statement provided to each client in advance.

World Equity Group, via Compass Asset Management, has entered into Solicitor (referral fee) arrangements with various non-WEG entities, whereby WEG will be referred certain clients for the purpose of rendering investment advisory services to these clients. For this referral, WEG will pay Solicitors in accordance with the fully-disclosed payment provisions of their agreement and within the guidelines noted under SEC Rule 206.

MARKETING ALLOWANCES

In some instances, WEG may receive additional compensation from brokerage firms, insurance companies, advisory firms, and vendors to defray the costs of marketing, due diligence, training, and the firm's annual conference. These payments may result in a conflict of interest to promote a product or service over another.

CUSTODY OF CLIENT FUNDS & SECURITIES

WEG does not custody client assets and uses independent third party custodians to hold all client securities and assets. The third-party custodians include Pershing, RBC Capital Markets or TD Ameritrade. Clients receive monthly or quarterly statements, as well as trade confirmations, directly from the custodian. The custodian used will vary depending on the program.

Typically, the Adhesion Management Program accounts are held at TD Ameritrade. Compass Asset Management accounts are held at RBC Capital Markets. Customized programs are held at RBC Capital Markets and Pershing.

In selecting custodial brokers for execution or recommendation to customers, the firm considers the full range and quality of services, including the value of research provided, execution capability, commission rate, financial responsibility and responsiveness to WEG in order to obtain the best execution for the client. WEG periodically evaluates the custodial broker/dealers it selects or recommends for clients.

INVESTMENT DISCRETION

WEG does accept discretionary authority to manage securities accounts on behalf of clients. Before assuming this responsibility, the client must sign a discretionary account agreement granting WEG or the IAR trading authority on their account. Restrictions to the discretionary agreement may be made by the client prior to opening or at any time after the account is established. Any restrictions made on the account must be submitted in writing and signed by the client. Restrictions may be placed by the client to prohibit certain investments from being made. For example, a client may not want investments in certain geographical regions or with companies involved with certain activities.

VOTING CLIENT SECURITIES

WEG does not accept authority to vote client securities. All proxy votes received at WEG are sent either directly to the client or the advisor for execution, depending on the setup of the account. WEG advisors may offer educational guidance on the various issues subject to voting, but will not recommend a certain vote, or offer to vote on behalf of the client if they are not setup in the account to do so. In regards to the Adhesion Wrap Account Program, the client is responsible for all proxies unless the selected Portfolio Manager's policy is to vote proxies. Should a selected Portfolio Manager elect to vote proxies, the advisor shall instruct the Custodian to forward to the Portfolio Manager copies of all proxies and shareholder communications relating to the assets. Information regarding Portfolio Managers' proxy voting policies is available in each Portfolio Manager's Form ADV Part 2.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION

WEG has not attached a balance sheet for its most recent fiscal year because it does not have custody of client funds or securities, or require prepayment of more than $1200 per client six or more months in advance. WEG does not have any financial conditions that are likely to impair our ability to meet our contractual obligations. WEG does employ an independent public accounting firm to annually audit its financial books and records.
